TLSC 300: Professional Learning Communities
Teaching, Learning, and Leading with Schools and Communities
School of Education, Loyola University Chicago
Academic Year: 2015 – 2016

Instructor Information
Name: Ann Marie Ryan, Ph.D.
Email: aryan3@luc.edu
Office: LT 1108
Office hours: Before and after class; by appointment
Class location: Mundelein Room 620

Name: Charles Tocci, Ed.D.
Email: ctocci@luc.edu
Office: LT 1148
Office hours: Before and after class; by appointment
Class location: Mundelein Room 620

Session Information
Fall Semester Dates:
• Monday, Nov 16th, 4:15 – 6:15pm
  (SOE International Fair, 6:00 – 7:00pm)
• Monday, Nov 23rd, 4:15 – 6:15pm
• Monday, Nov 30th, 4:15 – 6:15pm

Spring Semester Dates:
• Monday, April 11th, 4:15 – 6:15pm
• Monday, April 18th, 4:15 – 6:15pm
• Monday, April 25th, 4:15 – 6:15pm

Session Description
Professional learning communities (PLCs) serve as the touchstone of teaching and learning in the Teaching, Learning, and Leading with Schools and Communities (TLLSC) teacher preparation program, bringing together teacher candidates within specialty areas to share and co-construct knowledge, skills, and dispositions applied to their classroom contexts. By working in small groups of colleagues and peers, learning is emergent, targeted, and collaborative. Facilitated by faculty members with expertise in the specialty area, the PLCs serve as communities of practice where candidates come together to (a) share learning from various school- and community-based experiences, (b) synthesize learning through reflection and discussion, and (c) apply learning through completion of sequence summative assessments. In this way, candidates come together to make meaning of the learning in modules and sequences to apply learning within their chosen specialty areas in order to increase their content and pedagogical expertise.
Required Readings

• Other readings and resources will be posted on the Sakai site for the course

Session Goals

Essential Questions:

• What are pertinent factors of teaching, learning, and leading with schools and communities?
• How does theory connect with your learning and experiences in this sequence?
• How do sequence learning and experiences connect with past learning and experiences?
• How will you use your learning to guide subsequent problem-solving in education?
• What are the connections between your learning and experiences across this sequence and professionalism in service of social justice?
• What goals do you have for future learning in your chosen specialty area to increase your content and pedagogical expertise?

As a part of this experience, candidates will understand that effective educators:

• Enact principles of social justice in the school and community by focusing on the intellectual, social and emotional development of all students, promoting human rights, reducing inequalities, and increasing the empowerment of society’s most vulnerable groups (EU1).
• Engage and promote reflection and collaboration among teachers, students, administrators, families and communities to improve achievement for all students (EU2).
• Utilize information from theories and related research-based practices when making decisions and taking action in their professional practice (EU10).

As a part of this experience, candidates will:

• Use goals and procedures to guide PLC dialogue and to synthesize and make meaning of the learning and experiences across sequences.
• Engage in collaborative discussion and learning related to teaching, learning, and leading, as well as professionalism in service of social justice.
• Engage in dialog and make connections between sequence learning and experiences with pertinent theories and principles and specialty area teaching and learning.
• Complete the sequence summative assessments for their particular sequence related to the specialty area with individualized support from faculty facilitators.

As a part of this experience, candidates will be assessed on the following dispositions:

• Develop awareness that teaching is a complex practice with inherently political and ethical implications.
• Demonstrate professionalism and reflective practice in collaborating with teachers, students, administrators, families, and communities to improve achievement for all students.

• Participate in ongoing professional development, reading, and research in order to deepen their knowledge and expand their repertoire of skills.

• Reflect on how one’s actions affects others and as a result demonstrate respect, fair-mindedness, empathy, and ethical behavior toward all learners, including respect for students’ right to privacy.

• Demonstrate resiliency when confronted with challenges and recognize when the support of colleagues and others is needed.

• Recognize the critical importance and need for teacher leadership in and across classrooms, schools, districts, communities, and in local, national and international educational organizations.

The rubric with criteria for these dispositions can be found in LiveText. Please review these so you fully understand how you are being assessed.

IDEA Objectives:
As a part of this experience, candidates will:
• Learn to apply course material to improve thinking, problem solving, and decisions.
• Acquire skills in working with others as a member of a team.
• Acquire an interest in learning more by asking questions and seeking answers.

Grading and Assessment
• Grading: This course will be graded on a Pass/Fail basis.

• Attendance: PLCs, a 1-credit-hour experience across the academic year, meet only six total sessions – 3 sessions at the end of fall semester, and 3 at the end of spring semester. Because of the limited time of the experience, candidates are expected to attend every session. With a pertinent reason, the instructor may choose to allow the candidate to participate virtually for 1 of the 6 sessions – using Skype or other technology to engage with the PLC while not physically present. If an emergency arises, faculty always have the option of making accommodations. Attendance is mandatory and failing to be present will result in a grade of No Pass for TLSC 300: Professional Learning Communities.

• Participation: In addition to the importance of attendance, active participation is central to PLCs. To receive a passing grade, candidates must come ready to actively participate in PLC dialog. This implies having read any assigned readings and completed any assigned tasks determined by the instructor or by the PLC as a whole.

• Assessment: At the close of each semester, following the completion of the PLCs and submission of sequence summative assessments, candidates will reflect upon personal and professional learning during that semester, specifically on Conceptual Framework Standards 1 (synthesizing their learning about teaching, learning, and leading with
Session Experiences

- PLCs, by nature, are flexible and responsive to the evolving needs of the participants. Whereas the introductory session of the academic year will be used to inform candidates about the pertinent PLC structure and relation to the overall TLLSC program, ongoing sessions are flexible based on candidates’ needs.
- Within the larger PLC section, candidates will engage in Teacher Candidate Inquiry Groups (TCIGs). These smaller groups will be organized by program area (e.g., bilingual/bicultural, elementary) and interest and will span program years and developmental stages in teacher development (e.g., freshman, sophomore).
- Whereas each session will open and close with whole-group dialog and learning in the PLC, the TCIGs will serve as the primary locale for candidates to set goals for learning, ask questions about their practice, seek out resources to mediate discussion, and work through problems and solutions together. The instructor will participate and facilitate these TCIG discussions, but they are meant to be emergent from candidates’ interests, questions, and ideas as they apply learning from the semester to areas of expertise.
- In addition to whole-group PLC and small-group TCIG dialog, each TLSC 300 session will close with sequence-based small groups to support one another in working on the summative assessments for the specific sequences.

School of Education Policies and Information

Conceptual Framework Standards
The School of Education at Loyola University Chicago, a Jesuit and Catholic urban university, supports the Jesuit ideal of knowledge in the service of humanity. We endeavor to advance professional education in the service of social justice, engaged with Chicago, the nation, and the world. To achieve this vision the School of Education participates in the discovery, development, demonstration, and dissemination of professional knowledge and practice within a context of ethics, service to others, and social justice. We fulfill this mission by preparing professionals to serve as teachers, administrators, psychologists, and researchers; by conducting research on issues of professional practice and social justice; and by partnering with schools and community agencies to enhance life-long learning in the Chicago area. Specifically, PLCs bring together teacher candidates to have them make meaning of their learning and experiences in schools, as well as apply that learning to future practice and behaviors in teaching practice. The School’s complete Conceptual Framework can be found at the following link:

http://luc.edu/education/syllabus-addendum/
Diversity
PLCs provide candidates with the opportunity to engage in collaboration with a community of learners – discussing and making meaning of all learning and experiences in schools and communities. Additionally, teacher candidates will engage in reflection and response in relation to professionalism in service of social justice. With this in mind, teacher candidates will consistently engage in dialogue around the diverse students (including those with special education needs and those who are English language learners), classrooms, schools, families, and communities with which they engaged in the prior sequence, as well as connect and reflect upon those experiences in relation to their own professional practice as a future urban teacher.

See the following link for the full policy on the School of Education’s Electronic Communication Policies and Guidelines: http://luc.edu/education/syllabus-addendum/

University Policies and Information

See the following link for the policies related to Loyola University Chicago and the School of Education on the important matters of Academic Honesty, Accessibility and EthicsLine Reporting: http://luc.edu/education/syllabus-addendum/
General Schedule for TLSC 300 Fall 2015

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Session</th>
<th>Fall Date</th>
<th>Agenda Overview</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| 1       | November 16th | Introduction to Fall PLC Objective: Candidates will discuss “action civics” as an approach for teaching civics. Candidates identify an action civics opportunity in Chicago and design a standards-based action civics project for secondary students.
Discussion of No Citizen Left Behind |
| 2       | November 23rd | Session planned in conjunction with Mikva Challenge.                                                                                                                                                   |
| 3       | November 30th | Session planned in conjunction with Mikva Challenge.                                                                                                                                                   |
| Final   | November 30th | Sequence Summative Assessments Due to LiveText                                                                                                                                                     |