- Optional essay choices are listed on the application form and have been reprinted below.

  The Faculty Committee on Admission is interested in knowing you as a person. You may, if you wish, submit an additional one page essay on one of the following topics:

  - Option One: Why have you chosen to apply to Loyola University Chicago School of Law?
  - Option Two: What attributes or characteristics best describe you, and how will they contribute to your success as a law student and member of the legal profession?
  - Option Three: Diversity Statement: Loyola University Chicago School of Law students come from diverse racial, economic, religious, ethnic and educational backgrounds. We believe that tremendous educational benefits flow from our diverse student body, and we greatly value diversity in our classrooms and our community. We also fully appreciate that many of our students have encountered and overcome significant and unusual hardships in the pursuit of their educational goals. Please explain how your unique background or circumstances would contribute to our community and should be a factor in our consideration of your application.

Character and Fitness

Students should be aware that a growing number of jurisdictions (including Illinois) permit students to register for the bar during the first year of legal studies. The requirements for admission to the Illinois Bar are specified in Illinois Supreme Court Rules 701-708. Under these rules, proof of school studies is made by a certificate issued by the School of Law. In addition, an affidavit of good character and fitness is required by the law school dean for each candidate.

Part of the application is a questionnaire from the Character and Fitness Committee which asks about past incidents involving the law. Reports of sufficiently serious matters may result in a request from the Committee to view your application to law school. Discrepancies between the law school application and the Character and Fitness questionnaire or any independent examination of your record may result in an extensive investigation and potentially serious consequences both at the law school and at the bar application stage.

The questions you will be asked are listed below:

1. Were you ever suspended, expelled, placed on probation, either for academic or social reasons, or otherwise disciplined by any college, university, or professional school? Actions arising from allegations of academic dishonesty (including, but not limited to cheating and plagiarism), or any form of behavioral misconduct (including, but not limited to misconduct related to alcohol or substance abuse) must be included. You must include disclosures about any proceedings that are pending. Please note: If your transcript indicates any notation(s) of academic action, including academic probation, suspension, dismissal, warning, etc., you will need to answer “yes” to this question and provide a written explanation of the circumstances.

2. Were you ever suspended, expelled, placed on probation, or otherwise disciplined by any professional organization or state agency charged with regulating professional conduct, or are any such proceedings pending?

3. Have you ever been convicted of, pleaded guilty or nolo contendere (no contest) to a criminal offense or ordinance violation other than a minor traffic offense? A minor traffic offense is one that results in a fine of $200 or less. All other criminal offenses, ordinance violations and traffic offenses must be disclosed. Is any criminal charge now pending against you? Offenses involving the use of drugs or alcohol are not considered minor offenses and must be reported.

4. Have you ever been discharged from military service under conditions other than honorable?

5. Have you ever had your driver’s license suspended?

If you answer any of these questions in the affirmative, you must provide a complete explanation of the circumstances on a separate sheet or electronic attachment. Please put your explanation in your own words and provide as much detail as possible.
