Welcome
You are now an important member of an exceptional team of law students, lawyers, public health students, social workers, medical students, medical residents and healthcare providers. As a Student Attorney participating in the Health Justice Project, you have a unique opportunity to gain lawyering skills, represent clients in critical areas of need and respond to health disparities in our community. Over the course of the semester, you will make a tangible difference in the lives of low-income and vulnerable populations in Chicago. We invite you to operate at an attorney level and to take personal responsibility for the quality and future of the Health Justice Project, its clients, and your own development as a lawyer.

Overview
The seminar component of the Health Justice Project is designed to provide you with the training and resources necessary to your successful participation in the medical-legal partnership. The seminar structure will include lecture, facilitated group discussions, case rounds and skill-based simulations.

This syllabus is intended to complement the Health Justice Project Handbook. Please refer to the Handbook for detailed descriptions of course goals, objectives and the assignments and meetings listed below.

You should immediately record the dates and deadlines in this syllabus in your own calendar. Please note that the syllabus is subject to change based on clinic caseload and to ensure seminar discussions are well timed.

This syllabus does not include the dates of your individual case deadlines. These deadlines will be set throughout the semester.

Code of Conduct
The Loyola University Chicago School of Law Code of Conduct shall govern aspects of this class. See, www.luc.edu/law/fyi/pdfs/Code_of_Conduct.pdf

Required Materials
Students are responsible for obtaining a copy of the The Working Poor (2005). A copy is on reserve in the library. All other required materials will be provided to students.

In addition to required materials, students will be expected to do research necessary to the representation of clients and to meet individual case deadlines.

Attendance
Class attendance and office hours are mandatory and an unexcused absence or tardiness will affect your grade. Students who regularly miss seminar or their office hours violate ABA rules and may be precluded from receiving credit for the course. If you need to be absent, please let your supervising attorneys know by email either in advance, or as soon as possible thereafter.

Seminar Preparation and Participation
You are expected to complete all assigned readings and to be prepared to weave them into class discussions and your casework. You may be asked to discuss the status of your case in order to springboard to discussion about a particular aspect of the practice of law, or to supplement learning about the law applicable to the Clinic caseload.

A significant portion of your final grade will depend on the quality of your class participation, your attendance to class, your interaction with faculty and each other, and, most importantly, your ability to work well with and support each other. For a detailed discussion of evaluations and grading, see the Health Justice Project Handbook. You should be well prepared for class discussions and presentations and participate enthusiastically in related activities. If you have prior employment or study experience in a discipline related to the work of the Health Justice Project, you are encouraged to bring that perspective to the conversation.

Recurring Deadlines & Meetings
The following Assignments & Deadlines recur throughout the semester:
• Time Sheet, Monday at 10:00m (Weekly)
• Critical Experience Assessment, Monday at 10:00m (Monthly for Client Advocates)
