Environmental Science Major Pathway to Study Abroad

When & Where to Study Abroad

Students studying in the Institute of Environmental Sustainability have more flexibility in when they can study abroad than many other science students. Junior or senior year are often the best time to go abroad, after completing foundational coursework in your major. There are many study abroad programs available that cater to students studying environmental sustainability, and most include a hands on field work component. Alternatively, environmental science students can reserve their Tier II core courses for their semester abroad and have even more options.

Programs with course offerings in Environmental Sustainability

Global Centers
- The Beijing Center for Chinese Studies (Summer)
- John Felice Rome Center
- Vietnam Center

Global Faculty-Led Programs
- Belize (J-term & Spring Break)

Global Partner Programs

Jesuit University Programs
- Newman Institute, Sweden

USAC
- Melbourne, Australia
- Gold Coast, Australia
- Florianopolis, Brazil
- Puntarenas, Costa Rica
- Heredia, Costa Rica
- San Ramon, Costa Rica
- Bristol, England
- London, England
- Accra, Ghana
- Cork, Ireland
- Seoul, Korea
- Hiroshima, Japan
- Nagasaki, Japan
- Auckland/Palmerston North/Wellington, New Zealand

IES Abroad
- Buenos Aires, Argentina
- Melbourne, Australia
- Sydney, Australia
- Vienna, Austria
- Rio de Janeiro, Brazil
- San Jose, Costa Rica
- Quito, Ecuador
- London, England
- Nantes, France
- Nice, France
- Galapagos Islands
- Berlin, Germany
- Freiburg, Germany
- Delhi, India
- Tokyo, Japan
- Auckland, New Zealand
- Christchurch, New Zealand
- Barcelona, Spain
- Granada, Spain
- Salamanca, Spain
- Cape Town, South Africa

SIT
- Cairns, Australia
- Byron Bay, Australia
- Quito, Ecuador
- Ísafjörður, Iceland
- Bedulu, Bali, Indonesia (Summer)
- Fort Dauphin (Tolagnaro), Madagascar
- Ulaanbaatar, Mongolia
- Katmandu, Nepal (Summer)
- Panama City, Panama
- Stone Town, Zanzibar
- Arusha, Tanzania

API
- San Jose, Costa Rica
- Leeds, England
- London, England
- Limerick, Ireland
- Stirling, Scotland
- Cádiz, Spain

CIS (Internships only)
- San José, Costa Rica
- Quito, Ecuador
- Wellington, New Zealand
- Stirling, Scotland