Psychology Majors Pathway to Study Abroad

When & Where to Study Abroad
Students studying in the Department of Psychology have flexibility in when they can study abroad. Students need to be aware of where they are in their major or minor sequence. Students may take Psychology electives abroad. Students may take a maximum of one half of their major and minor courses through approved programs. Labs and capstone projects are ineligible for study abroad. Students who wish to study abroad in their junior year and conduct research in their senior year need to plan accordingly.
