Dear Loyola Students:

Welcome to the Center for Experiential Learning (CEL) and the Academic Internship Program!

We are glad you are interested in the Academic Internship Program at Loyola University Chicago. Internships are valuable educational experiences that may enhance your academic program, provide you with significant experience in a professional field, and contribute to your career development.

This resource manual will provide you with important resources and information to help you get started with your academic internship process. Included in this packet are the following:

- Opportunities for Experiential Learning at Loyola
- Academic Internships at a glance...
- Planning for a Successful Academic Internship Experience
- Maximizing Your Internship
- Sample Academic Internship Program Documents

Please review these documents so that you are aware of the components of this program. We look forward to hearing about your internship experience and all you have learned through your experiences.

Sincerely,

Patrick M. Green, Ed.D.
Director, Center for Experiential Learning

Our Mission

The Center for Experiential Learning serves students, faculty, staff and community partners of Loyola University Chicago as a resource for experiential learning opportunities and partnerships. We offer information, resources and support for the development of academic internship opportunities, service-learning courses and undergraduate research experiences. In collaborating with the community, we align our work with the Jesuit Catholic mission and vision of our university, seeking "to expand knowledge in the service of humanity," and learning through extraordinary experiences and critical reflection on those experiences.

Learning beyond the walls of the classroom...

There are many opportunities for Loyola students to engage in experiential learning locally, nationally and internationally, through community service, service-learning, internships, community-based Federal Work-Study employment, and field experiences associated with Loyola's undergraduate and graduate schools.

The CEL provides the following opportunities to Loyola students.

ACADEMIC INTERNSHIPS: As interns, individual students engage in a long term commitment of at least one semester (3+ months) with intensive work responsibilities in an internship position (usually 10-15 hours/week) to gain professional experience. Internships may be paid or unpaid. Academic interns are also enrolled in an academic course at Loyola which requires them to reflect on their community-based experiences through readings and assignments. Students receive academic credit for their internships, depending on program requirements, faculty/department approval, and position availability.

- Louise Deske, Academic Internship Coordinator
ldeske@LUC.edu, 773-508-3952

SERVICE-LEARNING: Each semester, students have the opportunity to enroll in one of more than 25 service-learning courses at Loyola. These courses generally require students to do 20+ hours of unpaid service in the community at organizations whose mission relates to the class' academic topic. This allows students to enhance their understanding of academic material through community-based experiences while meeting real community needs.

- Chris Skrable, Service-Learning Coordinator
cskrabl@LUC.edu, 773-508-2380

STUDENT EMPLOYMENT PROGRAM: As student employees, individual students engage in opportunities designed to help them earn money, build skills and, when possible, utilize Federal Work-Study awards through on-campus or off-campus employment. Student employment positions vary in length from a few weeks to over a year resulting in, ideally 10-15 hours/week of work. Student employment can exist within any of the following capacities:

- COMMUNITY-BASED FEDERAL WORK-STUDY
- ON-CAMPUS STUDENT EMPLOYMENT (FWS & NON-FWS)
- OFF-CAMPUS EMPLOYMENT
- INTERNSHIPS

Kathryn Jackson, Coordinator Student Employment
kjackson9@LUC.edu, 773-508-3553

UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH: The Loyola Undergraduate Research Opportunities Program (LUROP) promotes one-on-one research collaboration between undergraduate students and faculty researchers. Numerous students have also presented their research with faculty mentors at national or international academic conferences.

An Internship...

Nowadays, internships are all the rage for college students. Advisors and academic mentors talk about their importance; career counselors point out that employers are looking for them on students' resumes; parents ask about them when visiting colleges with their children. And yet, many students don't really know what an internship is, or why an internship experience can be so beneficial to their academic and professional development.

The National Society for Experiential Education defines an internship as "a carefully monitored work experience in which an individual has intentional learning goals and reflects actively on what he or she is learning throughout the experience." Students can do internships with for-profit or not-for-profit organizations. Intern positions can be paid or unpaid.

Why?

Students should plan their internship in order to:

- Apply what you've learned in the classroom to real work experience and "real-life" situations
- An internship is an appropriate way to "reality test" a career in a chosen field of study (It may also help to define career choices for a job after graduation)
- Build a strong resume (Students with internship experience are highly sought out by companies looking for entry-level candidates because you have already proven skills in the workplace)
- Develop a network of professional contacts for future opportunities and references (You may also be able to acquire a mentor in the field to help you in your career)
- Learn which workplace skills you need to develop.
- If the internship is paired with an academic course students can receive academic credit

Student reflections:

As an intern there were a lot of opportunities for others in the company to kind of show us the way things were to be done, but we also found ways to be leaders ourselves. There were some times when the interns would remind the event planners how to get out of the old ways and to embrace new ideas and ways of doing things.

*Julie Hilgendorf '08
(MedHealth Group)*

Even before receiving the internship offer, I was astonished how the atmosphere at the Chicago Children's Museum was like at a "real job." Before this internship experience, I have not been in a professional working environment.... Analyzing my work experience, performance, and surroundings has helped me become more conscious of my overall presence in a working environment.

*Irina Kramskay '08
(Chicago Children's Museum)*

At first, it was difficult for me to see the importance of my work at my internship. In fact, I felt insignificant at times.... But in retrospect, I understand that my role was much more significant than I previously thought...[and] began to reaffirm my role in the organizational development at CAR.

At a glance...

ALWAYS connected to an academic course, for which student must register (and pay)

10-15 hours/week on-site

Student works for the entire semester (3+ months) or summer

100-150 hours total work

Paid or unpaid

Student has a clearly defined role at the organization

Organization provides a mentor/supervisor for the intern

Mentor/supervisor provides ongoing feedback to the intern

FOCUS: pre-professional development and academic mastery in subject area

Academic Internships – an Overview

An academic internship is an internship experience that is connected to an academic course in the student intern's major or an area of interest. The course instructor (who serves as the intern's faculty supervisor) evaluates the intern's learning throughout the internship and assigns him/her credit (and a grade!) for that learning. Students must register (and pay for) for an academic course in order to receive academic credit for an internship at Loyola.

Most Loyola undergraduate academic internships require students to work approximately 10-15 hours/week, for a total of 100-150 hours/semester. Such internships may be paid or unpaid, but their focus is on student learning, with the on-site internship supervisor functioning as a co-educator (along with the student's supervising faculty member) to enhance students' "real-world" knowledge of a discipline.

An academic internship should:

- Provide meaningful work experiences for the student, directly linked with the student's major or academic program
- Be professionally and academically rigorous, resulting in a defined project or product benefiting the organization and student learning
- Provide a job description with clear responsibilities, establish clear expectations of job performance, dress, and hours/schedule.
- Provide the student with individualized attention from a mentor at the organization
- Provide formal and informal evaluations throughout the experience and a final assessment from both the student and organization mentor. Feedback is essential to the learning process!

The Academic Internship Coordinator and CEL staff work with students to find engaging, meaningful, and balanced academic internship experiences, helping students to clarify their interests and needs, connect with an appropriate Loyola academic program, and identify particularly interesting community-based opportunities.

Planning for your Academic Internship

As with any successful endeavor, finding an internship requires careful thought and planning!

▪ *Questions to consider when exploring internship options

- What are your career goals and how do you perceive your internship can help with your future plans?
- What previous jobs or volunteer experiences have you had? Which ones did you like and dislike, and why?
- Why did you choose your major? If you haven't yet chosen a major, what are your favorite classes and what majors are you considering?
- What are your hobbies and what do you like to do for fun?
- What skills do you have to offer an employer and what skills would you most like to develop or improve?
- How much time can you realistically allocate to an internship each week? Carefully consider the requirements for school work and other commitments in your life. Specify the days and times you will be available to travel to and work at the site.

▪ *Obtaining an Academic Internship: A Timeline

Searching for an internship takes time and effort. Competitive internships may have application deadlines several months (even a year) before the starting date. Use this timeline as a guide as you begin your internship search.

6 months before preferred starting date:

- Assess your interests: identify goals and priorities for the internship (cf. "Questions to consider")
- Develop a rough draft of your resume and cover letter (LUC.edu/career/resume.shtml)
- Begin searching online for opportunities relevant to your interest (see "Using eRecruiting")
- Visit the CEL in the Sullivan Center
- Determine your academic learning objectives
- Meet with your academic advisor, to discuss course, major, and Core requirements

5 months before preferred starting date:

- Narrow your search and save internships in a folder for future access
- Finalize your resume, cover letter and list of references (visit the Career Development Center)
- Review interviewing techniques/participate in a mock interview at the Career Center

4 months before preferred starting date:

- Send your resume, cover letter and application materials to potential sites/programs
- Follow-up with sites two weeks after information is sent
- Interview with companies...but keep sending out resumes to new ones, too!
- Wait for a decision or decisions
- Complete necessary forms required by academic department
- Register for the academic course associated with your internship experience

Maximizing Your Internship

Once you've obtained the academic internship of your dreams, take advantage of these tips for getting the most out of your internship experience:

Focus on your internship priorities:

- Clarify your employer's expectations of you up front so you will know exactly what your position entails.
- Ask about the employer's dress codes.
- Clarify your work days and hours. Remember, this is the "real world"!
- Begin observing and understanding workplace culture from the very first day.
- Start building a good relationship with your supervisor(s) and co-workers. Remember, this internship also is your chance to start a professional network.
- Practice good business etiquette. Develop your professionalism.

Don't just work there, learn something!

- Use break times to ask other staff members about their jobs and career histories.
- Ask if you can participate in meetings to learn more about the company or industry.

Remember to:

- Ask appropriate questions.
- Watch for signals as to where or when you can help.
- Ask for feedback and support from your supervisor and co-workers.
- Find out whom you should go to for help.
- Cultivate key feedback sources and start building your professional network.
- Always listen actively to directions and instructions.
- Show enthusiasm for your work.
- Be flexible and take initiative.
- Always follow through on projects, even if it means needing additional clarification.
- Be a good listener. Don't interrupt.
- Take initiative.

Do NOT:

- Use work e-mail/phone for non-business use.
- Download programs or viruses to the office computer.
