Loan Guide

Investing in your education

Need-based loans

Federal Perkins Loans

- The Federal Perkins Loan is a low-interest undergraduate loan program. Awards are based on financial need as demonstrated by information provided on the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) and on the availability of funds.
- Funding is limited; preference is given to students with exceptional need who have met Loyola University Chicago's April 15 priority application deadline.
- Award criteria may change from year to year based on available funding.

Alternative loan programs

Eligibility for most of these loan programs is based on the creditworthiness of the borrower and may require a co-signer.

A college education is recognized as an important investment, and the expense can be financed. If your family is not eligible for sufficient need-based financial assistance or chooses not to apply, these programs offer alternate resources. If your family received financial assistance but wishes to finance all or part of your remaining cost of attendance, alternative loan programs can close that gap.

iPlan

The Installment Plan (iPlan) is an optional arrangement to make educational payments more affordable by spreading payments over a selected number of monthly installments instead of making one payment each semester. iPlan begins in March; there is no need to have your financial aid award before setting up iPlan.

Loyola iPlan benefits include:

- Additional monthly installment options
- Clear, step-by-step budgeting process
- Streamlined account information

Federal Direct Loans

Loyola University Chicago has joined the Federal Direct Student Loan Program for undergraduate, graduate, and professional school student borrowing. Under the Direct Loan Program, students will work with the Office of Student Financial Assistance to obtain loans from the Federal Government instead of private banks and credit unions. Students borrowing Federal Direct Stafford Loans will have the same terms and conditions and interest rates as loans borrowed under the FFEL Program. The Federal Direct Student Loan Program also offers loan fee rebates, more repayment plan choices, and additional loan forgiveness options.

Federal Stafford Loans

- Submission of a FAFSA is required.
- A .5 percent origination fee is deducted from each payment of the loan to Loyola.

- Loans require a minimum of two disbursements during the enrollment period unless the recipient will be enrolled for only one term.
