OUR MISSION

We are Chicago’s Jesuit, Catholic University—a diverse community seeking God in all things and working to expand knowledge in the service of humanity through learning, justice, and faith.
JO ANNE ROONEY, JD, LLM, EdD, is the 24th president of Loyola University Chicago and the first lay president in the University’s history. She joins Loyola with a diverse background that includes various positions in higher education, law, business, health care, and public service. Most recently, Dr. Rooney was managing director at Huron Consulting Group in Chicago with responsibility for developing strategies to advance Huron Healthcare’s Federal Government Consulting practice.

Dr. Rooney’s appointment returns her to leadership in higher education, as she has served as the president of both Spalding University—a private, Catholic, doctoral-level university in Louisville, Kentucky—and Mount Ida College, a baccalaureate-level college offering undergraduate and graduate degrees in Newton, Massachusetts. She has also spent more than 22 years in the classroom connecting with students and teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

During her eight-year tenure at Spalding, Dr. Rooney led an impressive turnaround of an institution facing severe challenges. Leveraging her strong business, finance, and operational experience—and engaging support from the internal university community, the Archdiocese of Louisville, local business and community leaders, and alumni—she was able to stabilize the university and set it on a course of continued growth, allowing it to thrive to this day. In 2006, Dr. Rooney was named “Most Admired Woman in Education” by Today’s Woman magazine.

In July 2010, Dr. Rooney was appointed president of Mount Ida College. After only months in the position, she was called by the Obama Administration to serve her country—a life-changing event that led her on an unexpected career path as the nominee for principal deputy under secretary of defense for personnel and readiness in the U.S. Department of Defense. She was confirmed for the position by the U.S. Senate in May 2011.

Within the U.S. Department of Defense, Dr. Rooney served as senior advisor to the under secretary of defense comptroller, principal deputy under secretary of defense for personnel and readiness, and acting under secretary of defense for personnel and readiness. As senior advisor to the secretary of defense, she managed a broad portfolio encompassing recruitment, career development, health care, readiness, pay, and benefits for approximately 1.4 million active-duty personnel, 1.3 million Guard and Reserve personnel, and their families. She had direct responsibility for more than 30,000 employees and a budget of more than $70 billion, and she served as a senior spokesperson for defense-wide issues.

In 2012, former Secretary of Defense Leon Panetta awarded Dr. Rooney the Department of Defense Medal for Distinguished Public Service, the highest award given to a civilian by the secretary of defense.

Dr. Rooney holds a Bachelor of Science and a Doctor of Education in higher education management from the University of Pennsylvania. Other affiliations include various positions in the legal and business sectors. She is a member of the American Bar Association and three state bar associations and has served as a board member with a variety of civic and corporate organizations, including the board of directors of the Catholic Education Foundation, and as vice chair of Jewish Hospital & St. Mary’s Healthcare—a Catholic Health Initiatives organization—in Louisville, Kentucky. She currently sits on the board of trustees for Regis University, a Jesuit institution located in Denver, Colorado.

“BUILDING A MORE JUST, HUMANE, AND SUSTAINABLE WORLD”

The theme of Dr. Rooney’s inauguration is “Building a More Just, Humane, and Sustainable World,” which is also Loyola’s current strategic plan, Plan 2020. This plan is grounded in over 450 years of Jesuit, Catholic tradition and the collective wisdom of faculty, staff, students, alumni, and trustees. It is also informed by the present realities of our city and world and seeks to shape a better University and—through that University—a better future.

Plan 2020 is a framework to focus our energies on improving the quality of education, so our students are prepared to be agents of change affecting their families, careers, and communities. It organizes how we will leverage the resources of the University to meet the needs of our city and our world and deepen our identity as a Jesuit, Catholic enterprise for learning.

It articulates the University’s collective aspirations to act more for transformative justice by contributing to a more just, humane, and sustainable world.
On behalf of the Archdiocese of Chicago, I welcome Dr. Jo Ann Rooney, JD, LLM, EdD, as the 24th President of Loyola University of Chicago. In a special way, Very Rev. Peter Snieg, the administrators, faculty, staff and seminarians of Saint Joseph College Seminary of Loyola University join me in welcoming Dr. Rooney.

As Loyola University adds a new chapter to its rich 146-year history with the first lay woman as President, Dr. Rooney’s diverse professional and leadership experiences, her passion for higher education, deep Catholic faith and commitment to Jesuit values will enhance the teaching, research and service for which Loyola University is renowned. In a particular way, we look forward to continued collaboration in educating seminarians to serve in parishes throughout the Archdiocese of Chicago. Loyola fills a vital role in forming leaders for the Church and society in its programs for those interested in professional ministry and faith-based leadership and its endeavors to cultivate Catholic faith and spirituality.

Built on a firm foundation of the centuries-old Jesuit tradition of education, seeking God in all things and developing the whole person, together with its emphasis on excellence, as well as personal and professional ethics and community service, the undergraduate and graduate programs at the Lake Shore, Water Tower, Health Sciences and The John Felice Rome Center Campuses of Loyola University, as well as course offerings in Beijing, Vietnam, and Vernon Hills, are a tremendous resource in our metropolitan area and beyond.

From its first class of 37 students in 1870 to the largest undergraduate freshmen class in its history in 2016, Loyola has developed into a world class center of scholarship and research with eleven schools and colleges. With Dr. Rooney at the helm, may its administrators, faculty and staff continue to illuminate the search for truth; advance the dialogue between faith and reason and between faiths and cultures; foster social justice and global solidarity; and promote peace and prosperity by educating Ramblers to strengthen communities, cultivate a more humane world, and make a difference as “persons for others.”
ABOUT LOYOLA UNIVERSITY CHICAGO

FOUNDED IN 1870, Loyola University Chicago is one of the nation’s largest Jesuit, Catholic universities, with nearly 16,500 students. More than 11,000 undergraduates call Loyola home.

The University has four campuses: three in the greater Chicago area and one in Rome, Italy, as well as course locations in Beijing, China; Saigon-Ho Chi Minh City, Vietnam; Vernon Hills, Illinois (Cuneo Mansion and Gardens); and a Retreat and Ecology Campus in Woodstock, Illinois.

The University features 13 schools, institutes, and colleges, including Arrupe College, College of Arts and Sciences, Michael R. Quinlan School of Business, School of Communication, School of Continuing and Professional Studies, School of Education, Institute of Environmental Sustainability, the Graduate School, School of Law, Stritch School of Medicine, Marcella Niehoff School of Nursing, Institute of Pastoral Studies, and School of Social Work.

 Ranked a top 100 national university by U.S. News & World Report, Loyola is also among a select group of universities recognized for community service and engagement by prestigious national organizations like the Carnegie Foundation and the Corporation for National and Community Service.

LAKE SHORE CAMPUS (2016)
THE CHAIN of OFFICE

AS THE OFFICIAL SYMBOL of the Office of the President of Loyola University Chicago, the Chain of Office was conferred for the first time at the Inauguration of the University’s 22nd president, John J. Piderit, S.J. At that time, it was worn by the president at all official University functions where the president presided.

Commissioned in 1993, the Chain of Office was crafted by William Frederick, a metalsmith and former faculty member of the Art Institute of Chicago. The chain contains 17 links. The front of each link features a unique cross design. The chain was made using a centuries-old process called cire-perdue, or lost wax casting, a practice developed by the Etruscans.

The medallion that hangs from the chain is an interpretation of the University seal. The symbols within the seal reflect the history and heritage of Loyola University Chicago.

Engraved on the reverse side of the medallion are the names of Loyola’s first 23 presidents and their years in office. Dr. Rooney’s name is engraved on the back of the center link, immediately above the medallion, a position that will always be reserved for the name of the governing president. In the future, former presidents will move up the chain to other links.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

THE CUSTOM OF WEARING academic gowns, hoods, and caps dates back to about the 12th century, when most scholars belonged to a religious order. Long gowns and hoods were standard dress for medieval clergy, who often studied and taught in cold buildings.

Sometime in the 14th century, English universities began to use the dress to distinguish levels of education. Modeled on the English system, the American Academic Costume Code was established in 1895 by a commission of delegates from the Ivy League and New York universities.

The Costume Code calls for three types of gowns: doctoral, master’s, and bachelor’s. The doctoral gown is the most elaborate, with front-facing velvet and three velvet bars on each of the full, billowing sleeves. The velvet can be black, PhD blue, or the academic color to which the degree corresponds. The master’s gown is distinctive for its extremely long, closed sleeves, the arms protruding through a slit at the elbow. The bachelor’s gown is the simplest of the three, a plain gown with long, pointed sleeves. Doctoral and master’s degrees are also indicated by a hood, distinctive in shape, size, and color.

The doctor’s hood is easily recognizable, with wide velvet edging that indicates the degree earned and full exposure of the lining. The master’s hood is the same length as the doctor’s hood but does not fully expose the lining, and the velvet edging is not as wide. For both hoods, the lining indicates the colors of the institution conferring the degree. Mortarboards, the distinctive four-pointed caps, are worn by academics at all levels. In recent years, doctors have taken to wearing a soft velvet tam instead.

CLOSING PRAYER
Grant me, O Lord, to see everything now with new eyes, to discern and test the spirits that help me read the signs of the times, to relish the things that are yours, and to communicate them to others.

PERSONAL PRAYER
OF PEDRO ARRUPE, S.J.
Grant me, O Lord, to see everything now with new eyes, to discern and test the spirits that help me read the signs of the times, to relish the things that are yours, and to communicate them to others.

Give me the clarity of understanding that you gave Ignatius.
