When & Where to Study Abroad

Students studying in computer science have more flexibility in when they can study abroad than many other science students. Junior or senior year are often the best time go abroad, after completing foundational coursework in your major. There are some study abroad programs which offer computer science course which can be approved to count for your 300-level electives. Alternatively, computer science students can reserve their Tier II core courses for their semester abroad and have even more options.

Programs with course offerings in Computer Science

Global Partners

USAC
- Cork, Ireland
- Bristol, England
- Stirling, Scotland
- St. Andrews, Scotland
- Seoul, South Korea
- Vaxjo, Sweden
- Melbourne, Australia
- Gold Coast, Australia
- Accra, Ghana
- Alicante, Spain
- Palmerston North, New Zealand
- Auckland, New Zealand
- Wellington, New Zealand
- Florianopolis, Brazil

IES Abroad
- Melbourne, Australia
- Sydney, Australia
- Vienna, Austria
- London, England
- Nantes, France
- Berlin, Germany
- Freiburg, Germany
- Dublin, Ireland
- Rabat, Morocco
- Auckland, New Zealand
- Christchurch, New Zealand
- Cape Town, South Africa
- Granada, Spain
- Madrid, Spain
- Salamanca, Spain
- Istanbul, Turkey

API
- Valparaíso, Chile
- Leeds, England
- Cork, Ireland
- Galway, Ireland
- Limerick, Ireland
- Edinburgh, Scotland
- Stirling, Scotland
- Sharjah, United Arab Emirates

CIS (Internships only)
- Melbourne, Australia
- Sydney, Australia
- Wellington, New Zealand
- Barcelona, Spain