Administrative History

The Theresians of the United States is a Catholic organization open to all women of faith. Founded in Pueblo, Colorado in 1961 by Diocesan Vocation Director Reverend Msgr. Elwood Voss, it originally concentrated on the Church's need for religious vocations for women. Msgr. Voss realized that few organizations for women to enrich their own lives existed within the Catholic Church. He patterned the Theresians on the Serra Club, an organization designed to foster and support vocations for men in the priesthood. The organization became known as "Theresians" after the patroness of the Pueblo, Colorado diocese, St. Thèrèse of Lisieux, and also because Thèrèse developed a "simplistic" theology quite unlike the complex spirituality practiced over the centuries. Working in close cooperation with Msgr. Voss in the founding, coordinating, and expansion of the national and international units of the Theresian organization were Virginia Siegle (O'Donnell) from 1962 to 1969, Sister Patricia Mullen, SFCC, in the 1970s and 1980s. Msgr. Voss served as Founding Director from 1961 until 1980. Sister Patricia Mullen became the Executive Director from 1980-1990 and was succeeded by Sister Rose Ann Barmann, OSB, who served as Executive Director from 1990-1999. Victoria S. Schmidt became the organization's first lay director in 1999 and continues to hold that position until this day.

In the early years of the Thesians, laywomen members concentrated on the apostolate of sponsoring vocations in religious life. This was the primary focus of the Thesians until a new statement of purpose was formulated in 1969. The new statement of purpose added an additional dimension emphasizing a deeper appreciation of the vocation of both Christian women-religious and lay women. Post-Vatican II changes in religious life affected the relationship between lay women and Sisters. Sisters joined already established Thesian communities or founded new Thesian communities. In the Thesians, single, married, widowed, divorced, and professed religious women gained a common quest: to discover a new perspective of themselves as women and, ultimately, women of the Church and society. Ideologically, the organization provided opportunities for life enrichment for the Christian woman through the Five Dimensions, a term used since 1971 to describe a Thesian's way of responding to God's call in her life. These dimensions include spiritual development, ongoing education, affirmation and encouragement in their vocations, community, and ministry.

The Thesian National Office was located in Colorado for the first ten years of the organizations existence. In 1971, the offices moved to Scottsdale, Arizona. The Scottsdale property was sold in 1991 and the National Office were once again established in Colorado, this time in offices provided by the Benet Hill Benedictines in Colorado Springs. The organization is generally recognized as a women's group, however men also participate. Men are invited to participate in special events, attend Thesian conferences, and to serve on the Thesian National Board of Consultants. The present location of the National Office is in Springfield, Illinois. Msgr. Voss, founder of the Thesians of the United States and the Thesian World Ministry, died in Phoenix, Arizona in 1992.

The concept of Women in Support of Women accounted for the rapid expansion of the Thesian communities. In 1994 there were eighty communities with more than 1500 members in the United States. The Thesian World Ministry (TWM) includes participants in Argentina, Canada, Australia, Ghana, the Philippines, China, England, Mexico, Thailand, and Nigeria. The Church's focus on the importance of an active lay ministry throughout the world was partly responsible for the surge of growth of this organization. Thesian members strive to grow as women of faith, service, and vision.
